

good TO KNOW

Greenhouses use field scouting to identify pests and diseases early, further reducing the need for pesticides.

Greenhouse growers practice Integrated Pest Management (IPM) where good bugs are deployed, such as ladybugs and beneficial mites, which protect Greenhouse crops from plant-feeding pesticides.

THE END RESULT

is a consistently high-quality product with minimal chemical intervention.

